Hearings on Demobilization
at Fort Seward

1919

NATIONAL ARCHIVES MICROFILM PUBLICATIONS

GOVERNOR RIGGS: I have read the telegram from Major White, to the eight discharged men from Fort Seward, regarding what he maintains is a false and untrue statement in the public press and now Dr. Freeburger is about to take up the telegram in detail and make a statement.

DR. FREEBURGER: (Reads) * * * * * * * * * * I wired Captain Finnegan, requesting him to have papers publish the requirements of circular seventy-seven; that is, that evidence of employment is required and should be sent to the soldier for filing with his application and not wired or mailed to me. Draft boards were requested to assist us in spreading the information. All circulars and bulletins covering eligibility and conditions for discharge have been promptly published to the troops. --

Now, here we're discharged under No. 77, 86 and 186, or provisions of circulars---if I understand it correctly---circulars or communications from, who is it, General Crowder?

CAPT. FINNEGAN: Adjutant General of the War Department

DR. FREEBURGER: For information to the troops, yes. Circular No. 77 was read at reveille and posted on the bulletin board, but circulars 86 and 186 were never posted on the bulletin board to my knowledge. Did any of you fellows ever see circular 86 and 186 posted up on the bulletin board?

A. No, sir.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Seven soldiers, discharged soldiers unanimously insist that they never saw circulars 86 and 186 posted on the bulletin board.

DR. FREEBURGER: The nature of circular 86 and the nature of circular No. 186 was not known to me until Captain Finnegan read it off to me the other day, except the gist of them that somebody told me.

(Reads from Major White's telegram) * statement recently made to the press in Juneau or reputed to have been made to the effect that I refused to consider applications for discharge and that I had fixed the minimum number to be retained at this post as two hundred men are absolutely false, untrue and can only be construed by myself as malicious. * * * * * * * * * * * *

After 77 was put on the bulletin board, it was there three or four days, or possibly longer than that, but I know it was there quite a while. (To other discharged soldiers): Would it be two weeks?

A. Yes, two or three weeks; yes, three weeks.

DR. FREEBURGER: And then they took it down again for a while. Maybe it's there yet. But they put this circular up and then it was necessary for us to furnish our proof of employment before you could put in an application. Well, I didn't have any proof of my claim except my own word, so I went down to send a wire to Doctor Kaser to make me out an affidavit in regard to my claims and they refused to let me send the wire.

MR. COUGHLIN: Censored the wire.

DR. FREEBURGER: The wire was censored on all communications pertaining to a man soliciting aid from the outside to get a discharge.

MR. COUGHLIN: The wire was censored on all mail in any way concerning circular No. 77. You could not send out a wire concerning a man's discharge unless it was O. K.'d by the adjutant.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Were many wires turned down and not allowed to be sent at all?

MR. COUGHLIN: George Dewey Skuse who is working at Thane now, he tried to wire Mr. Jackson about getting his discharge and his wire was turned back to him.

MR. FREEBURGER: Mine was turned back to me, too; and there was two fishermen in the casuals that made an application for discharge and sent a wire or tried to, and it was turned down. Then we wrote for them. That just took a little longer; went down on the boat and we had to wait till it come back. Just delayed us a week.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Now, how about this statement that the company commander posted alongside of 77?

DR. FREEBURGER: Well, that come out, as I say, after he put this thing up, he accepted some applications, about twenty, but that wasn't for our information either. We heard that on the inside, too. Do you know how many were accepted (To Mr. Courey)?

MR. COUREY: No; I believe they took all the men with allotments. He accepted a number of applications and then he told me that they couldn't submit applications unless they had allotments; that is, unless they had dependents. I went down to him with an affidavit, and he said "I can't do anything for you." I told him "Well, I got to go back to my business."

"Well, he says, "if you put in your application, I will disapprove of it." I said "Well, that's what I want you to do." So I filled out an application and turned it in and after four days we were discharged.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: What is your business?

DR. FREEBURGER (Answering for Courey): mercantile.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Did the company commander post a notice?

DR. FREEBURGER: He posted a notice something to thiseffect: "No more applications will be received for discharge under the provisions of circular No. 77, owing to the fact that no more men can be spared from the command."

GOVERNOR RIGGS: That was signed by whom?

DR. FREEBURGER: C. F. Small, first lieutenant of infantry; signed on a typewriter, by the way.

Q. How many men in the command at that time.

DR. FREEBURGER: I'm not prepared to say---in the neighborhood of 200.

MR. COUREY: At that time there was 139 men in the company, besides the quartermaster corps and the medical corps.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Have all you men got allotments?

DR, FREEBURGER: Yes.

MR. COUREY: I have not allotment.

DR. FREEBURGER: But you got out on the threat to put it over their heads.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Seven of the eight men here had allotments.

MR. COUREY: Seven.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: I mean that are here, just that are here this afternoon. Wait a minute, now. Can anybody else remember the wording of that notice put up by lieutenant Small? Can you Mr. Coughlin?

MR. DOUGHLIN: That is as close as I can remember it.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: I'd like to get somebody else to put in their own words how they remember that wording.

MR. COUGHLIN: The only addition I could make would be---

GOVERNOR RIGGS: (Interrupting) Can you repeat the whole thing?

MR. COUGHLIN: As I remember it---I forgot the date of it; I think it was---I'm not positive of the date, but it said: "No more applications will be received for discharge under the provisions of circular 77. By order of the company commander."

GOVERNOR RIGGS: That is about all?

MR. COUGHLIN: Yes.

Q. Did it give any reason?

MR. COUGHLIN: Reason, yes. Well, I couldn't use the exact words, but it was that no more men could be spared from the command.

DR. FREEBURGER: Bob, I think, can bear me out in the fact that one man tendered his application and it was laid in the basket in the orderly's room and laid there for five weeks without any action being taken on it.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Bob who?

DR. FREEBURGER: Bob Coughlin. Mine was left there three days.

GOVERNOR RIGGS (To Mr. Coughlin): How did you know it was left for five weeks in the basket?

MR. COUGHLIN: Because I was in the orderly's room and private Running, the man that submitted the application had been there different times and he knew that it was there, and he made the statement, told me about it. He finally went into the company commander and told him about it, and the company commander said, "I'll send it through, but I'll send it through disapproved, and Running said "That's just what I want you to do; I want to know if you can go against War Department orders; I just want to find out if you can hold it here any longer."

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Did he send it through?

MR. COUGHLIN: I'm not positive; I don't believe he did.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Who was this man?

MR. COUGHLIN: Thomas Running.

DR. FREEBURGER: And he's still there.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Where did he come from?

DR. FREEBURGER: Skagway. He had letters from Cy Tanner, marshal Tanner, stating that his grounds for discharge were. He put in his application and it was held there. I don't know what his grounds were, but the fact remains that it lay there without any action at all, either approval or disapproval. Now, it is possible, Governor Riggs, that this Major White didn't know that the applications were being rejected down at the company. If lieutenant Small took that on his shoulders and issued that in his own behalf, why the Major very likely didn't know it, because I never saw him around. He never shows up around the barracks. I have never seen him around the barracks except on quarterly inspection.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: How many officers are there?

DR. FREEBURGER: There are in the infantry, Major White, battalion commander, Lieutenant Simpson, battalion adjutant, and Lieutenant Small, the only company officers.

MR. COUREY: And Lieutenant Connolly.

DR. FREEBURGER: Lieutenant Connolly is the ordnance officer; and then, of course, there is the quartermaster captain and Major Evans at the hospital, the medical officer.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Have any of you men got any more light that you can throw on this, about applications for discharge, properly accompanied by certificates of employment being turned down?

DR. FREEBURGER: Private Selig's was turned down, too. He had it down there for one week and another time he had it there for three days.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Did he have it accompanied by the proper certificates of employment?

DR. FREEBURGER: Well, it's his own business.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: He was in business for himself?

DR. FREEBURGER: Yes.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: What is his business?

DR. FREEBURGER: Fishing

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Did he own a boat.

DR. FREEBURGER: I think he does; i'm not quite sure whether he owns a boat, but I think ~~did~~ he does.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Any of you here present among the last that were discharged?

DR. FREEBURGER: These men were all discharged yesterday.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Oh, you are the last that have been discharged?

DR. FREEBURGER: Yes.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Well, do you know how many have been discharged previously?

DR. FREEBURGER: Five, with the bunch of nine today; City of Seattle brought some down. The casual detachment was discharged in a body.

MR. COUREY: Including the slackers, there have been more; twelve slackers.

Q. Was there such practice used up there as to deter the boys from following up their applications and insisting on any rights they might have had?

MR. COUREY: There's corporal Taschek, or Treshel, I think his name is, why he went out to the cable office to send a telegram to his father to send him an affidavit, and they didn't accept his cable at all. So finally he had to go up to the adjutant and had to have him O. K. it---

Q (Interrupting): Well, I mean was there any, not open and plain reluctance on the part of the officers to accept applications, but was it done in such a manner that it deterred or embarrassed the boys from making applications; in other words, did they think it was usueless to apply?

DR. FREEBURGER: Yes, sir; the order was on the board that they would not be accepted. Now, take the case of Harry Ester. He went out there and asked permission to see the company commander. The first sergeant told him it was no use to see him. He said he wanted to see him and he did see him, but he got balled out for it when the first sergeant told him there was no use to see him---

Q. Got balled out by whom?

DR. FREEBURGER: The company commander. Hesaid "What did the first sergeant tell you about seeing me?" He had the necessary affidavits from his father that he was in poor health and accompanying affidavit from his father's physicism; that his services were badly needed at home.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: What was his physical condition?

DR. FREEBURGER: His physical condition was all right, I think. He wanted to get out to help his father. He was getting morose and feeling badly about it, was all. I was kind of worried about him because he was acting too melancholy.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Do you know any of the following men: John Taylor; Fred Otto, Peter Paulson, Harry Selig, Murray Spanks, Hilmar Mack and Harry Coulter?

DR. FREEBURGER: Yes.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Have any of those men been discharged?

DR. FREEBURGER: No, sir.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Is Harry Coulter there yet?

DR. FREEBURGER: Yes.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Do you know whether they have made applications for discharge?

MR. COUGHLIN: Harry Coulter tried twice and was turned down and so he said he'd just let everything ride.

MR. COUREY: Harry Selig tried twice and they wouldn't accept his application.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: You know John Taylor?

MR. COUGHLIN: John Taylor; that's corporal Taylor.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Or Fred Otto,

MR. COUGHLIN: Fred Otto. I don't know him.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Peter Paulson?

MR. COUGHLIN: Peter Paulson; that's a funny case. There is a man with a terribly bad rupture. He went to the hospital He was on heavy duty there all the time until his hernia bothered him so much. He went up to the hospital one day and he told the doctor the circumstances; told him he had to be treated and Major Evans told him to put in an application to the commander, the company commander. He came down from the hospital and saw the company commander and the company commander told him that the hospital would get him out and that is as far as Peter Paulson ever got.

DR. FREEBURGER: He had no grounds for discharge; that is, under the conditions of circular No. 77; but he's got a bad rupture. That's what he's trying to get out for.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: I have a letter here from the Deep Sea Fishermen's Union, stating that these men are needed for work on the fishing boats.

DR. FREEBURGER: They can all go to work. They realize that, but they think that that doesn't do them any good to put that in the application, because it is almost self-evident that every fisherman can go to work as soon as he gets out.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Murray Spanks. Do you know anything about him particularly?

MR. COUGHLIN: No, sir.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Or Hilmar Mack?

MR. COUGHLIN: Oh, that's the little, smart fellow; I know who he is.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: But you don't know anything definite about him?

MR. COUGHLIN: No, sir.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Do you know anything about a man named Bird? Is that his name?---corporal, got promoted to---

DR. FREEBURGER: Roberts is the fellow that was promoted to corporal. He was promoted to corporal during the time that his application went to Frisco and when the order for his discharge came, they refused to discharge him because he was a corporal and the order called for the discharge of private Roberts. Do you know that to be a fact Bob? That was what he said.

MR. COUGHLIN: That's what he told me. The Chichagof people tried to get him out. That's the only man they tried to ask exemption for. As soon as peace was declared an order came from the Western Department to re-examine private Roberts for discharge, and when he was taken into the orderly room, he reported as corporal roberts, and they told him that the communication was for private Roberts.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: One case where a promotion didn't help him any.

DR. FREEBURGER: Now, how about Funk?

MR. COUGHLIN: I don't know.

DR. FREEBURGER: You know, Courey, that Funk did put in an application?

MR. COUREY: Well, he told me that he put in an application.

MR. COUGHLIN: I knwo the Chichagof people tried to get him.

DR. FREEBURGER: They have been trying to get Funk and Roberts. Somebody had told me that. Who was it? Somebody of Chichagof told me that Jim wired the War Department to find out why they couldn't get Funk out; the War Department wired up there and wanted to know why he had been refused and they wired back that he had never made an application. Now, I can't tell who told me that, but somebody from Chichagof, and it made Jim awful mad. Funk had evidently made application.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: The consensus of opinion is that the disposition on the part of the officers at Fort Seward is to hold men in the service, whether they want to get out or not?

DR. FREEBURGER: It appears that way to me. Doesn't it to you fellows? Wouldn't you think so?

A. Yes.

MR. JOHNSON: He said yesterday that he had to have at the very least 70 men.

DR. FREEBURGER: But at the time there was 150 men in the company and he refused to ~~sign~~ accept any more applications. The sign was up that he wouldn't take any more applications.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: When did he make this statement?

MR. JOHNSON: Yesterday. It was a speech he made yesterday. He said 70 was the very least.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Are there 70 men there that want to stay.

MR. COUREY: There isn't five men that want to day.

DR. FREEBURGER: I don't believe he'd get ten men that want to stay. Might be able to get five or ten. The only thing that he says there (the telegram) that was absolutely false is that statement that two hundred men were required at the post. I didn't say that, but Ed Russel made that statement. He asked me how many men were there now and I told him in the neighborhood of 200, and I told him that they weren't permitted to make any applications for discharge. And they couldn't, because the order was up there that they shouldn't make application. It made me kind of sore--- making a malicious attempt on him. I guess there was fifty men when we got our discharge, made a trip over town that night to tell us good-bye and for God's sake to try to do something to get them discharge. They couldn't see the necessity of keeping two hundred men there, or a hundred and fifty men there to guard government property. Last winter, according to the rumor up there, there was something only in the neighborhood of 20 men there; that is, outside of the quartermaster corps and the kitchen and noncommissioned officers. There was twenty men to do guard duty. Now, the government property there, that property at Fort Seward would be amply guarded with three or four men. But even if he needs seventy men to guard that property , he didn't make this application to retain seventy men after the armistice was signed; he's making it on the third of February, after he gets jarred loose.

Fish case at Funiter Bay - July.
On Delays in Demobilization } Feb. 12. of Troops at Fort Seward

STATEMENT OF J. T. BARRON
of
TLINGIT PACKING CO., FUNTER BAY regarding
ACTIVITIES OF FISH PIRATES

July 24, 1920

MR. BARRON: Well at trap 14 there was a watchman. He told me that a man calling himself Humpy Nils---said his name was Humpy Nils---said that he was in the trap fishing business and expected that if there was any fish, either day or night in the trap, he said he'd take some of it. This conversation is corroborated by his stepson. I don't know his stepson's name, Hollywell, Hollywood, something like that---

GOVERNOR RIGGS: What's your watchman's name?

MR. BARRON: Watchman's name is---let's see. I had it down somewhere. In fact his name is Fisk, or something like that.

JUDGE WINN: Watchman on what trap?

MR. BARRON: On trap 14.

JUDGE WINN: Where is that located?

MR. BARRON: Above Funter Bay; about five miles above Funter Bay, north.

JUDGE WINN: In Chatham Straits?

MR. BARRON: Yes.

MR. BARRON: That watchman's name is---

JUDGE WINN: Never mind the watchman's name. You have that as a matter of record and we can get that.

MR. BARRON: What was I on just before that?

JUDGE WINN: You were just telling about his stepson.

MR. BARRON: Oh, his stepson, who is working for us, told me that a man came ashore; talked with this stepfather and said that he addressed him, saying first, "You don't know me, but they call me 'Humpy Nils.'"

JUDGE WINN: Was that at your trap 14?

MR. BARRON: Yes. This is his stepson that told me what he said to his father.

JUDGE WINN: Humpy Nils' stepson?

MR. BARRON: Oh, no; the Russian watchman's. We're getting this thing mixed up.

JUDGE WINN: That's just the reason I am asking questions.

MR. BARRON: And then he said he was in the fish trap business and "I expect to get fish out of your trap either day or night," or words to that effect. That's the substance of it, anyhow. Then Louis Williams came into the cannery---

GOVERNOR RIGGS (Interrupting): Who's Louie Williams?

MR. BARRON: Louie Williams was outside foremanfor the Alaska Fisheries. He said that his trap on Chatham Straits was robbed. I don't know the number of the trap---13, I think it was---and said it was the T 24, Humpy Nils; said the man saw them on the shore, and said that the watchman on the other trap--- I don't know the number of the trap next to him that's south, next to the trap south of the one that was robbed---told him that Humpy Nils told him that he had made a lot of money in the fish business and pulled out receipts aggregating eight hundred dollars, stating that they got the fish from Barron's traps.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Who were the receipts signed by?

MR. BARRON. I asked Louie Williams who the receipts were signed by, but he didn't know, but thought the watchman would know. He didn't know, but said he would get that information for me by the time I was coming in today, but I haven't seen him or heard from him since.

JUDGE WINN: The T 24 used to be known as the Thalia. She was suspected of trap robberies last year and at that time was owned by Durgan. She is now owned by Olaf Hanson.

MR. HELLENTHAL: Olaf Hanson has just been convicted of stealing those piles and will be sentenced in a few days, and that's just why I went to the District Attorney's office yesterday and tried to get him to get in touch with the judge, and he said he would be very anxious to get any information in regard to the T 24 to present to the judge when he sentences this man for stealing the piles.

MR. BARRON. Well, the T 24 has been lying around the traps north of Funter Bay for several days. Thursday---

GOVERNOR RIGGS (Interrupting): Last Thursday?

MR. BARRON (continuing): Yes.--I visited the launch. Wednesday I took a boat (Mr. Fitzpatrick was aboard); we went up to trap 15 and on the way saw the T 24 tied to a pile near the trap that was reported robbed--- the Alaska Fisheries. That's the trap. And coming back we were right close to the boat, but there was no sign of life aboard. No one appeared. That night the launch, the launch we had, broke down and I sent the Barren F out as I was afraid that the T 24 would be liable to life the traps. The Barren F, going to pile trap 16 in the dark, being a tender, discovered the T 24 tied to it. It, immediately on the approach of the Barren F, left and the Barren F followed, turning on the searchlight. A voice supposed to be Humpy Nils', cursed the captain, called him all kinds of names for not having sidelights and other things. The captain heard him saying something about side lights, but he was just in the pilot house and couldn't hear everything he said, but he heard him call him s. b.'s and everything else. So evidently they were laying for trap 16. Now, trap 13 was robbed---what date was that?

MR. FITZPATRICK: Friday morning.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: July 22d.

MR. BARRON (continuing): And No. 15 was robbed that same morning, Friday morning, as the watchman discovered the lines tied differently from what he does generally, and when the trap was lifted, there was very few fish in it.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Now, do you know who's buying this fish?

MR. BARRON: No, sir; I don't.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: It's been rumored to me that the Head Bay Packing Co. near Hidden Inlet, has been buying fish.

JUDGE WINN: What company is that?

GOVERNOR RIGGS: It's a small cannery. The superintendent's name is Bill Reitchmann.

JUDGE WINN: We could find out through the Secretary's office.

STATEMENT OF ALFRED ERICKSON, WATCHMAN FOR LIBBY, McNEILL & LIBBY, SHELTER COVE TRAP NO. 1, SHELTER ISLAND, JUNE 1, 1920

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Just give us a statement of what occurred.

MR. ERICKSON: They come in there at twelve o'clock---

GOVERNOR RIGGS (interrupting): Twelve o'clock of what day?

MR. ERICKSON: Sunday night

MR. SVENSSON: The thirtieth

MR. ERICKSON: The thirtieth, at twelve o'clock, they come in to the trap and stayed until four o'clock in the morning. At two o'clock they took to the shore and took my boat before they left. They took the boat and went adrift off a ways and then I thought they was going. When they come back they rowed with my skiff over to the trap. Then a few minutes later they come in to the big trap and took the rest of the fish.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: What kind of a boat was it?

MR. ERICKSON: It was a black painted boat. Couldn't see the name of it or nothing.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Black painted boat?

MR. ERICKSON: Yes.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: All black?

MR. ERICKSON: Yes. It was dark and I couldn't see very good, but she was a black painted boat, with a long mast and a boom on it.

CAPT. AHLES: What color is the house? Do you know?

MR. ERICKSON: No, I couldn't see that because it was too dark.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: How big a boat was she?

MR. ERICKSON: Must have been about forty or fifty feet.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: How many men cald you see?

MR. ERICKSON: I couldn't see how many there were.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: How many fish do you think they got?

MR. ERICKSON: Oh, about 600.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Kings?

MR. ERICKSON: Kings and sockeyes. Of course, that's only a guess.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: The boat put a man on shore with a rifle?

MR. ERICKSON: Yes, they put one on shore with a rifle and took my boat and then they picked him up again and went out.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: What did they do with your boat?

MR. ERICKSON: They took it with them and left me a little, old skiff there.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: They left a skiff?

MR. ERICKSON: They left a little bit of a thing

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Somebody ought to know that skiff.

MR. SVENSSON: The only trouble is that they might have stolen it from somebody else again.

MR. SOMMERS: Where do you live in regards to this trap? How close do you live in regard to this trap?

MR. ERICKSON: Well, at least---you see there's several hundred feet of lead---

MR. SENSOON (Interrupting): How far from the lead of the trap?

MR. ERICKSON: About two hundred feet.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Your boat was only a couple of hundred feet away from the cabin?

MR. ERICKSON: Yes, just a couple of hundred feet.

MR. SOMMERS: Did you see them take the boat?

MR. ERICKSON: I see them take the boat.

MR. SOMMERS: Did you say anything?

MR. ERICKSON: No.

MR. SVENSSON: Did they tell you to keep away?

MR. ERICKSON: I didn't go on shore at all, because there was too many men against one.

MR. SOMMERS: How many men were there?

MR. ERICKSON: I don't know.

MR. SOMMERS: How many men did you see when they took the boat?

MR. ERICKSON: There was four; two was in the skiff and two was in the big boat. That is as close as I could figure it out. I tried to watch as close as I could.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Were you in the cabin?

MR. ERICKSON: I was in the cabin, looking through the window.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: They stayed there until four o'clock in the morning?

MR. ERICKSON: They come in at twelve and stayed until four o'clock in the morning and they then started right across for that little island out there.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: What way did they come out, leave there?

MR. ERICKSON: Just like they come in, from Point Retreat, from that direction, and they started out in the same direction in which they left. I couldn't see them in the morning. They went inside some of the small islands. That is as far as I could see them. They were out of my sight them.

MR. SVENSSON: What direction would that be, captain? Where would they be going?

CAPT. AHUES: Started for Hump Island. You didn't see them round Point Retreat?

MR. ERICKSON: No; they went across Point Retreat; across the other shore.

CAPT. AHUES: That is this side below St. James Bay.

MR. ERICKSON: But that skiff, I could tell it no matter how they painted that skiff, I would know them.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Have you been down on the waterfront to see:

MR. ERICKSON: I have been down there but I couldn't see any of that size.

CAPT. AHUES: I don't believe, Governor, that the fish are coming in here.

MR. SENSSON: I have got a foolish notion that they are going to Wrangell. I know this, that when I came through Wrangell that they were shipping out considerable lot of spring salmon on ice, more I imagine than they usually do this time of the year. Hawk Inlet has been robbed and Tenakee and we have been robbed and we have been robbed of 600 king salmon. That's quite a lot of king salmon.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: There's Buschmann at Hawk Inlet. He has been robbed.

CAPT. AHUES: No, that is not Buschmann; that's---

GOVERNOR RIGGS:(interrupting): P. E. Harris.

CAPT. AHUES: (Continuing) P. E. Harris.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Who else?

MR. SVENSSON: The Columbia Packing Company at Tenakee and Libby, McNeill & Libby at Shelter Cove.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: And now comes in a rumor that Buschman has been robbed at Port Altherp.

MR. SVENSSON: Mr. Dano told Ahues this morning that it was a black painted boat that robbed his trap and that the marshal at Tenakee knows the number of the boat.

MR. ERICKSON: Well, that's a bad gang on that boat.

MR. SVENSSON: Kind of looks as though it was one boat doing all the mischief.

MR. SOMMERS: Well, they certainly are a bad crowd when they rob your trap and take your boat.

CAPT. AHUES: Next thing they'll be taking the trap.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Can't you put another man up there with a gun? We only have one subchaser here.

MR. SOMMERS: Well, I'll tell you that it's pretty hard to get a man out who will deliberately shoot anyone---

CAPT. AHUES: What would be the consequences if he did shoot somebody?

MR. SOMMERS (continuing) When it comes down to it.

MR. SVENSSON: Still, if a man is watching a cannery for us and a man comes in and steals---

GOVERNOR RIGGS: A man has always got a right to protect his property

CAPT. AHUES: What would be the consequences if you shoot a fellow and kill him? He'd be hung, wouldn't he?

MR. SOMMERS: He'd be tried; he wouldn't be hung.

CAPT. AHUES: We had one man last year and he was the only man what would take a chance at shooting.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: P. E. Harris took a chance. They think they wounded one of the pirates. They saw a man down the beach being helped into the boat.

MR. SVENSSON: Well, I'll do the best I can.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Have you seen the marshal?

MR. SVENSSON: No, we just met Mr. Dano on the street as we were coming up here.

MR. SOMMERS: He knows the number of the boat?

CAPT. AHUES: Yes, he knows the number of the boat

MR. SOMMERS: It seems to me they could track the boat pretty quickly if they have a number of it.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: If we could get the number of the boat, we could wire to Wrangell and find out if any fish, if a boat of that kind has brought any fish to sell there.

MR. SVENSSON: Six hundred king salmon, it would pay them to go to Ketchikan.

CAPT. AHUES: If they had ice enough.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: It is pretty cold nights yet.

MR. SOMMERS: Well, they'll make Ketchikan in twenty hours.

CAPT. AHUES: Yes.

MR. SVENSSON: Well, I thought we'd come in here and tell you. They may have a delivery station at Swanson Harbor.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: No, I don't think so. I have been there looking for bear. There was nobody in Swanson's Harbor. We kept our eye peeled for any strange craft, but we didn't hee- see anything that looked suspicious.

CAPT. AHUES: Howard Bay, that's the place that I am suspicious of. Last year they had their hang-out there.

MR. SVENSSON: Oh, these fellows will be back to Shelter Cove. There is another trap for them to lift. We passed the trap on Douglas Island that had approximately four or five hundred king salmon in it. The watchman says there was a boat around that, but he told them to get out. He'd shoot, too.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: The trouble with your watchman last year and the watchman this year is that they haven't kept their eyes open and given us very much of a description of the boats---

MR. SVENSSON: They should give us a better description of the boat.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: (Continuing) the number of men, the size of the boat and distinctive marks, if any. Have you any glasses to give to your watchmen?

MR. SVENSSON: I don't know

GOVERNOR RIGGS: You ought to furnish them with glasses so they could.

CAPT. AHUES: Why, last year they cleaned our trap out ten o'clock in the morning and they couldn't tell even what the men looked like; couldn't tell what the boat looked like; didn't want to tell. The night watchman he stayed up till six o'clock in the morning and then he went to bed. The boat was around there all night and he had a little power boat and he kept after them. He called these other two watchmen and he says, "Here, there is a boat around here and they're going to lift the trap." He woke up at ten o'clock and walked out just in time to see the boat getting through lifting the trap and these other two watchmen were asleep in the bunk.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Well, a watchman that doesn't keep his eyes peeled, is just as good as not having a watchman at all. What has been the t rouble is that men on the spot have not been able to give us any evidence. When we got the Weathers last year, we learned that the watchmen were absolutely useless as witnesses.

CAPT. AHUES: Some of them they had them buffaloed. We had a man there he wouldn't come in here. He said they threatened to lay for me and do me up. He said he wasn't going to come back here.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Anybody speak to you in town?

MR. ERICKSON: No.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Well, this intimidation in town is just as important as intimidation at the traps.

MR. SVENSSON: Surely.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Some of the witnesses they said that they were threatened in town, but would never come through; they never come clean. Now, this trap business is something in which we want to have the cooperation of those whose business it is to watch these traps, because it's an awfully hard game to convict unless you have somebody right there on the spot. Nobody wants to see this trap robbery broken up more than I do, and we'll do everything in our power to do it.

MR. SOMMERS: I'll tell you what would stop it, is to get watchmen on who will shoot up these fellows.

MR. SVENSSON: The only way to do that is to hire thugs that will not be afraid to shoot, and they'd probably sell you out. You can't depend upon them.

STATEMENT OF MR. HANS FLOE, SUPERINTENDENT OF P. E. HARRIS & CO'S CANNERY AT HAWK INLET, IN REGARD TO ACTIVITIES OF FISH PIRATES. MADE BEFORE GOVERNOR MAY 28, 1920.

Governor Riggs: Now just start right at the beginning and tell us all that happened.

MR. FLOE: Well, I better confine myself, I guess to this one trap.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Just the one trap; yes.

MR. FLOE: The watchman there, they come up to him in the middle of the night, about twelve o'clock---

GOVERNOR RIGGS (interrupting): Where is No. 3 trap?

MR. FLOE: She is located about five miles north of the mouth of Hawk Inlet---possibly.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: All right.

MR. FLOE: And these fellows they wanted to buy fish and the watchman told them they didn't have no fish to sell. "Well," they told him, "the watchman that was here last year used to sell fish," and he said "I wouldn't sell anyway." "Well," they said, "we'll take them anyway; if you don't want to sell, we'll take them anyway;" and they left the shack and went out and took the fish.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: They had rifles with them?

MR. FLOE: Yes.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: What kind of rifles?

MR. FLOE: Thirty-forty.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Winchesters?

MR. FLOE: I think it was; yes. And they said they'd be back again. So then I put on another watchman. This watchman he get scared. They told him, close up to the shack, if he didn't open the door, they'd break it in. He was sleeping when they came up to the shack. And they went out and took the fish slick and clean, too.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: How many fish did they get?

MR. FLOE: I don't know. I should judge at least a hundred or a hundred and fifty spring salmon. That's what I estimated was in the trap. And he got scared, of course, and moved down to the other watchman, and I get another watchman and put him on with this other fellow.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: That made three, then?

MR. FLOE: Now, that was two. And the next night they come around again and this watchman that was there he went out with a rifle, and told him what they wanted. He told them what they'd got and they just turned around and went out in the bay and started to answer him back. They were going to make him into meat sausage and all such things as that. This here was Tuesday night---no, Monday night. Well, Tuesday night I was going up myself, but then the storekeeper he wanted to go out. There was no use of our both going, so he went out and stayed with these two watchmen. That makes three that night.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: That was Monday night?

MR. FLOE: Yes---Tuesday night

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Tuesday night.

MR. FLOE: Or it will be Tuesday morning. And they was sitting in the shack talking and then the storekeeper and a watchman went out in the brush. They planned to be out in the brush.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: About what time Tuesday morning?

MR. FLOE: This was about twelve o'clock, about midnight, of course. The day watchman stayed in the shack. That was their plan anyway. And pretty soon here was one fellow kicking in the side of the house. Pretty soon here comes another one. They was going to break the door in and then he rushes out to locate his partners. When he got down on the point, he seen one of them alongside of a barrel---seen the full height of him. He was a pretty good sized man. So then he discovered he left his automatic in the shack, so he beat it back into the shack and gets his automatic, and they laid down in the brush then.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: That is, the pirates?

MR. FLOE: No; this here was the watchmen

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Watchmen?

MR. FLOE: Yes. And then they laid in the brush. Of course, they watched in every direction. Pretty soon one of them comes up the bank. There was a little point there and they had to circle around this bluff to locate the watchmen in the brushes.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: This was the pirates?

MR. FLOE: Yes, the fact of the matter, the subchaser threw her search-light on the watchmenand spotted the watchmen for the pirates, and, of course, the watchmen didn't know at the time that it was the subchaser. The next thing they seen them, they were coming over the bluff. One of the fellows fires a 30-40 and it just about glanced by the head of this storekeeper and just knocked his head aside. He had a pretty close shave. Pretty soon another fellow showed up and they let them have it. The 30-40 and automatic went at the same time. Of course, there was underbrush in the way and the least little limb it would be possible to sheer the bullet, and from then on they didn't see them back for about two hours. They they was going into the brush about two hundred feet farther down the beach, and then they did see them for a long time again. But the young kid seen them---the night watchman. There was four of them going along; they was dragging this fellow between them; that is holding him up, trying to help him along.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: One of the pirates?

MR. FLOE: Yes.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Did it look as though he had been shot?

MR. FLOE: Yes, I was down and had a talk with the watchman himself and he said he was sure that he was wounded

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Wounded?

MR. FLOE: Yes. Night before last again they was around, but they circled around the trap and we had two of them on No. ten; that is, two boats but they didn't try to get any fish.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Where is No. 10?

MR. FLOE: She is about five thousand feet from No. 3.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: North or south?

MR. FLOE: North.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Now you send me a telegram stating that the pirates were going to land men to kill the watchman. Where did you get that information?

MR. FLOE: Well, the watchman told me they landed these fellows on the beach between our No. 5 and No. 10. These fellows must have been landed there.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: You guessed they were after the watchman?

MR. FLOE: Yes, they weren't after the fish. They were after him to shoot him.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: You didn't hear any threats to kill the watchman?

MR. FLOE: No. The watchman that was there last year, he is the one they were really after, I think, because they told him. I asked this watchman---I couldn't get him to go back on that trap---and I asked him, "Did you speak to the fish pirates last year during the trial at Juneau? and he said "Yes."

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Did they threaten you?

MR. FLOE: No, but they told him they were going back and do the same thing over again.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: What is the name of that watchman?

MR. FLOE: Carl Peterson.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: On trap No. 3?

MR. FLOE: Yes.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: What is the name of the other watchman you had on that trap. One fellow's name is Carl Fursel and the other fellow's name is Jack Lambert, and the one I have there now is Joe Peasely.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: What is the name of your storekeeper?

MR. FLOE: Conrad Snekkestad.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: You know the name of the pirate that told your watchman last year they'd be back this year?

MR. FLOE: No, I don't.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Does he know it?

MR. FLOE: I doubt it.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: But this fellow is here?

MR. FLOE: I presume he is of the same bunch that were up to the watchman on No. ten and they told him that they'd get that watchman. They asked for this watchman, Carl Peterson, and said they was going to get him. They knew me personally and there was nothing they wasn't going to do to me--- they would do anything they had a chance to do. One of them was a Swede and one Norwegian, and they are married men---married men living in Juneau.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Does he know their names?

MR. FLOE: No. But there is one of these fellows who is the leading pirate; they call him Humpback Nils. That's an awful name, but really I don't know his name, but I found out today that he is married and is supposed to be the leader of these fish pirates.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: How many boats were out around the traps?

MR. FLOE: There was just one. The first night when they took the fish, there was a boat there has a scow along.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Red scow?

MR. FLOE: Well, it was dark. They said they couldn't tell. Most likely it was in the night.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Were they running without lights?

MR. FLOE: Oh, yes.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Where is your nearest doctor?

MR. FLOE: That would be Hoonah

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Doctor Berlund at Hoonah

MR. FLOE: But there was a boat passed down when I was aboard the subchaser, and they looked at him in the glasses and that was the description of this very boat.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Which way was it headed.

MR. FLOE: He was going for Point Augusta

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Where could these men sell their fish?

MR. FLOE: Well, the only place is the Juneau Cold Storage, Oliver's plant down here.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: Are there any canneries putting up spring salmon now?

MR. FLOE: Well, there is; yes. I presume there is, but they wouldn't care for a little bunch like that. There is no cannery that would buy them.

GOVERNOR RIGGS: How about the Freshwater Bay cannery?

MR. FLOE: They're not ready. And Linderberger at Tenakee I don't think the'rmild curing. I'M not positive that they're mild curing this year or not, but I don't think they are.

Description of pirate boat: Purse seine type, slate color, 40 or 50 ft. in length, name covered up, running without lights. Men seem to be young, one of them good sized; one a Norwegian and other a Swede.
